Social Market Final Demo

We presented our finalised work in the Social Market of the final demo day. The main presenter this time was Fabiana. I was there with Kourosh to help any time. I focused more on seeing other projects, since I have already presented the project multiple times in different events, such as the showcase event and the Night of the Nerds.

We got many visitors and testers who stated that they really enjoyed the game and that this was indeed a successful project. We have already presented this project many times in various events, so we did not receive any different feedback.

I also visited other projects to see the improvements made by different groups since the last showcase event. It was inspiring to see many projects completed by peers. This gave me motivation for later semesters to keep up the hard work and create useful and interactive projects that will help society grow.
